

LATER FROM EUROPE.

The Kangaroo and Australian have arrived at New York, bringing Liverpool dates to the 11th.

Cotton is unchanged, closing at last dates rather flat. No particular change in the flour and grain market.

Mr. Gladstone's remark in his speech at New Castle that Jeff. Davis had made the South a nation, and that he considered separation certain, attracts great attention, and caused flatness in the cotton market. The papers generally approve Gladstone's remarks, and some think a recognition of the South will soon follow.

Mr. Gladstone, in the address alluded to, makes use of the following remarks in reference to the war in America: "The slaves would be better off if the States were separated, as on the basis of union the law against slaves was enforced by the whole power of the Federal government. Our neutrality had been more against the South than the North. We ought to judge tenderly of the North. It had never drunk the cup of bitterness, and it exaggerated its feelings. Let us bear with them. Let us not forget the reception they gave the Prince of Wales. It was a proof of the settled good will of America to England. There could be no doubt that Jeff. Davis had made a nation of the South." Mr. Gladstone treated the South as a successful cause. [The announcement caused great sensation.]

The English journals continue to discuss President Lincoln's proclamation. The Daily News thinks it has spoken too disparagingly, and believes now that it may do better service than at first supposed.

The London Telegraph anticipates from the action of the political parties of the North, not anarchy, but an issue out of trouble. It says that the North is rousing itself to snatch the conduct of affairs from those whose incapability has done the work of treason.

The London Times publishes a letter from Major Longley, of the Royal Engineers, dated from Baltimore, complaining of insulting conduct to which he had been subjected by Lieut. Col. Massy, of the Second Maryland, and of the unsatisfactory nature of the redress accorded to him on an appeal to Gen. Wool.

Some of the English papers assert that the English government had again announced its intention of continuing a strict neutrality.

The London Shipping Gazette can hardly suppose that Mr. Gladstone expressed sentiments at variance with those of his colleagues. Possibly he has been premature in the announcement of his views. At Manchester, recently, he publicly expressed confidence in the success of the Southern cause. He is, at all events, deliberate and consistent. If the opinions he has given utterance to are not shared by his colleagues, it is difficult to understand how he is to continue in his present association to advise the Crown.

The Paris journals comment on the Maryland campaign. The Constitutionnel does not regard it as decidedly disastrous to the Confederates, whose sole aim it was to capture Harper's Ferry, and in which they succeeded.

The Moniteur says the advantage remains indisputably with Gen. McClellan.

A royal amnesty has been notified to Garibaldi. He goes shortly to Genoa.

Prince Napoleon and the Princess Clothilde had arrived at Naples.

The Pope had left Rome for Castel Gondolfo, after having visited the ex-King of Naples.

The ex-Queen of Naples had retired for a time to the Ursuline Convent of Augsburg.

The marriage of the King of Portugal to the Princess Maria Pia took place at Lisbon on the 6th inst. amid great rejoicing. The royal pair afterwards drove around the city, and were received with much enthusiasm.

An ukase of the Emperor of Russia, issued in connection with the great national celebration at Novogorod, stays the action of all sentences of confiscation pronounced against the Poles from 1831 to the present time; but the decree is only applicable in cases where the government has neglected or forgotten to sell property confiscated thirty years.

A decree orders a partial conscription in Poland for 1863.

We learn by the U. S. gunboat Dacotah, eight days from Key West, that Admiral Dupont was expected back from the North with instructions to proceed on a hostile demonstration at once. It was thought that Mobile and Charleston would be attacked on his return.—The mortar fleet at Pensacola had received sailing orders. All the vessels belonging to it, which had arrived, were heavily armed. The fever was rapidly disappearing from the squadron, and few deaths had recently occurred.

From Key West, we learn that the Confederate schooner Two Sisters—formerly a Virginia pilot-boat—from Nassau, N. P., with a cargo of gunny bags, arrived at Matamoras, September 21, with the Confederate flag flying, but finding the U. S. gunboat Albatross in port, she got under way and proceeded to sea. The Albatross slipped her anchor and gave chase, and succeeded in overhauling her off the harbor, put a prize crew on board, and sent her to Key West.

It having become known to the U. S. War Department that in some instances recruiting officers are selling their recruits as substitutes, it is provided that any one who shall do so shall be deprived of his company, and sustain such other punishment as may be thought necessary.

The steamship McClellan, from New Orleans, arrived at New York yesterday, bringing $80,000 in specie. There was no news of importance. The steamship Matanzas, which had been reported missing, arrived at New Orleans on the 14th.

It is reported that the New Jersey regiments which have become so reduced in strength are to be ordered home to recruit their numbers. Camp Frelinghuysen, near Newark, is to be kept in order for the accommodation of some of them.

Governor Curtin, of Penn., apprehending difficulty in enforcing the draft in some of the counties, has made preparations for enforcing the law, having been authorized to use the troops within the State for that purpose, if required.

The report set afloat that Gen. McClellan is to be removed from the command of the Army of the Potomac, meets with no credence at Washington.

The last number of the London Review contains a remarkable story of the mysterious disappearance of Mr. Bathurst, a British Envoy Extraordinary to the Court of Vienna in 1809, and the recent discovery of a probable clue to his murder, which is supposed to have been committed by order of the first Napoleon.

Quartermaster Hartz advertises for proposals for furnishing the U. S. Government with 1,000,000 feet of lumber, of different descriptions, to be delivered within twenty days after the signing of the contract. The lumber is intended for the erection of hospitals, barracks, etc.

The Governor of Ohio has suspended the writ of habeas corpus in regard to drafted aliens in the camps of that State.
